My main objectives for a term as a member of the IFLA governing board would be to work to fulfil the goals of the organisation – to make sure that IFLA is the leading international body representing the interest of library and information services and their users. I would like to work to ensure that IFLA maintain a functional structure, and develop the organisation so that it will be able to approach the challenges of an always changing world.

This would mean to ensure that IFLA as an organisation fulfils the tasks defined by its members, and focussing on reaching a consensus in important matters. It will be of importance to me to see to that IFLA advocates a wide range of activities, built upon the unique knowledge held by the numerous members and active contributors.

A main challenge will be to see to that IFLA covers the wide range of library services defined in the structure of sections and divisions, and ensure that our many volunteers are given the opportunity to achieve their goals within all these fields.

I believe my background from a national library authority working with a wide range of library issues, within both public and academic libraries fields, has given me an advantage in fulfilling these objectives.

I will be able to attend the GB meetings during the term.

Oslo, 25. February 2009
